

Curriculum Vitae of Sebenzile Masango

Sebenzile Masango passed his matric at Ndamase High School in the Eastern Cape in 1982. Thereafter, he obtained a Secondary Teachers Diploma at Butterworth College of Education in 1985. This was followed by his university studies at the University of South Africa, where he obtained, the degree of Bachelor of Administration in 1990, an Honours Bachelor of Administration degree in 1992, a Master of Administration degree in 1997, and a Doctor of Administration in 2001.

He joined the then Vista University, which is one of the legacy institutions of the Nelson Mandela University, as a Junior Lecturer in 1995.

He rose through the ranks of Lecturer B, Lecturer A, Senior Lecturer, and Associate Professor between October 1997 and August 2007. He has been involved in academic leadership since 2000, as the Head of the Department of Public Administration at the Port Elizabeth campus of Vista University from 2000 to 2004 and Head of Department of Political & Governmental Studies and Director of School of Governmental & Social Sciences between 2007 and 2015 at Nelson Mandela University.

He has published several articles in peer reviewed and accredited journals. He has also presented papers in national and international conferences. He is also a reviewer of journal articles for the South African Association of Public Administration and Management (SAAPAM) and Association of South African Schools and Departments of Public Administration and Management (ASSADPAM). He also serves as an external examiner of several South African Universities.

Sebenzile Masango has also supervised to completion a substantial number of postgraduate students including 37 Masters and 5 Doctoral candidates. He is currently involved in teaching, postgraduate supervision, research and academic engagement in the Department of Public Management and Leadership. He is also the programme leader of the Public Administration Postgraduate Programme.